

Do you remember the A-team or Charlie's Angels more fondly than most of your class mates?

Want to meet and mix with other LGB Catholics?

Free on Saturday May 12th?

Then the first Quest national Younger Members Event could be just what you need

For the first time LGB Catholics (under 40) to have an opportunity to engage with similar people in a relaxed and supportive environment. The event will be held in Liverpool, the European Capital of Culture 2008, at the University Catholic Chaplaincy near the Metropolitan Cathedral, Catherine Street (L8 7NL).

We will be watching an LGB/Catholic related dvd, chatting about our own experiences, attending Mass, then going out for food at a local reasonably priced restaurant. For those of you with enough stamina, we will take you out to experience a few of Liverpool's many vibrant bars. You are welcome to dip into all or some of the above activities as you wish. Partners and friends are most welcome to attend.

There will be a £5 cost for the day to cover expenses, this will include light refreshments. There are regular, direct train connections to Liverpool from a number of locations including London and Birmingham (<http://www.thetrainline.com>). Liverpool itself has a number of good B&B's, budget hotel rooms and hostels with private rooms (<http://www.visitliverpool.com/>).

If you are interested and would like to be kept up to date please register your interest by emailing Anne-Marie at youngermembers@questgaycatholic.org.uk. You can also keep up to date with developments by checking out the at the discussion forum page under the topic headed General on the Quest website <http://www.questgaycatholic.org.uk/> or you can leave a message on the Liverpool Quest phone and I will get back to you 07983 021589.
